Equal and Exact Justice to all Men, ligious or Political.--Thos. Jefferson.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 31, 1890.

WHY NOT BRING BINGHAM SCHOOL TO RALEIGH?

It is a noticeable thing that there is a strong tendency in schools and colleges of repute to move from the country to towns and cities. If there is no other reason for this, the recent fires at Bingham School tend to show that a good fire department is a very important feature in the property and permanency of a school or college.

Raleigh has the fire department and many other important advantages. Why shall not Raleigh make an effort to bring the Bingham School to the capital of the State? It may be that self-preservation will force the school to move to a city. Why not to Raleigh? Other towns will move in this matter. We hear that Greensboro and Asheville have already done so.

We throw this out to-day merely in the form of a suggestion. There is no need to say that there is not a school in the State of any kind that has a career of such length and that its patrons are gathered from almost every State in the Union. Its name would be worth $25,- 000 to Raleigh, not to speak of the apparent benefits that would follow its location here.

The CHRONICLE says, by all means, let us offer sufficient inducements to secure the removal of Bingham School to Raleigh.

What says the Chamber of Commerce?

SOUND AND FURY VS. SENSE.

The Memphis Appeal-Avalanche has lost its head and is writing a great deal of secession literature which can only do harm. It declares that the passage of the Force Bill means that the war upon the South is on again, and that:
"It will unloose the dogs. Where now is peace will be disorder. * * *
Force should meet force. The response of the South to the Cloture resolution should be an appeal to arms."

The South has every reason to be indignant at the course of the partizans of the Hoar and Lodge stripe, but let us not forget that the victories of peace are the only ones which the South can seek to secure. There are no words sufficiently severe with which to characterize the Force Bill. It is damnable and infamous, and will produce evil and evil only. But talk of war will not prevent its passage. Argument and reason are against it. Let us use these weapons, and not words that have sound and fury, but signify nothing.

Far better than this blood and thunder talk is the eloquent speech of Mr.
JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES, the eloquent young Georgian at the New England dinner in Philadelphia. In an earnest plea for the marriage of New England and the South, he was loudly applauded, and when he had concluded he received a great ovation. When the cheering had finished he lifted a small Union flag, and holding it aloft, said:

"Mr. President, I take this flag-- which now, please God, shall be my flag forever--and as I hold it here, every star blazing Hope, every stripe crimson with the warmth of kindred, Ford Sumter pledges Bunker Hill in the new meaning of the immortal sentiment, 'Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable!'"

A SCHOLARLY NORTH CARO-LINIAN.

Dr. Charles Lee Smith, who has been connected with the Charity Organization Work at Baltimore for more than a year, also an instructor at the Johns Hopkins University, has resigned those positions and accepted one in Missouri. He enters upon his duties as Professor of Political Science and History at the William Jewell college, the great Baptist college of the West, at the beginning of the spring term, which is some time about the 15th of January.--Durham Sun.

The CHRONICLE gives this item of news to its readers with regret and pleasure: regret, that a North Carolinian of such talent and real scholarship should not be engaged in work in his native State; pleasure, that his ability has brought to him recognition and honors from abroad.

Dr. SMITH is an enthusiastic young scholar, and the CHRONICLE hopes that some day sufficient inducements can be offered to call him back to North Carolina.

They have an organization of ladies in Washington known as the "Wimodoughsis," the object of which is to afford opportunity to the women, irrespective of pecuniary or other repressive conditions, to meet and enjoy the best and most entertaining feasts of literary and artistic culture and fine arts. The name is an abbreviation of "wives, mothers, daughters, sisters."

CHRISTMAS DIXIE.

The Christmas number of Dixie is a very handsome publication and is chock full of interesting Christmas mack-Typographically, it is a beautiful issue and is as bright and attractive in appearance as in its contents. There is a growing demand for a Southern literary magazine which shall be an inspiration to the brilliant young authors of the South, furnish to the growing army of Southern readers a distinctive Southern literature, which shall go far to "create and foster public opinion, and made it racy of the soil." Properly encouraged and supported, with a large capital and ability to employ the best talent and artists, Dixie can well fill that field. It already has the foundation and we hope it will begin the new year with the resolve and a large enough stock company to make Dixie to the South what the New England Magazine is to New England.

The contents for Christmas Dixie include one of JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS' best tales for children, "Two Little Tales as Told by Uncle Remus;" Mrs. Jas. W.
ROGERS writes on "Daddy Zeke's Search for Li'l Marse;" WALLACE P. REED gives a story of an "Old Debt;" "The Race Question" is discussed by ALEX. P. HULL; there are Christmas stories and poems; and Mr. WM. B. PHILLIPS, Ph. D., formerly Professor in the University of North Carolina and now of Alabama, contributes a valuable article on "Evolution of the Modern Blast Furnace." This issue contains "Some Bright Young Men of the Southern Press," with portraits of F. H. RICHARDSON, the bright, versatile and growing Washington correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution; CLARK HOWELL, managing editor of the Atlanta Constitution who is the youngest Speaker of the House Georgia ever had; JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES of the Rome Tribune, whose reputation as an orator has caused many to say that the mantle of HENRY GRADY has fallen on his shoulders; and JOSEPHUS DANIELS, editor of the STATE CHRONICLE. The sketch is from the pen of MRS. MEL R. COLQUITT, and is in her best vein.

PUBLIC ROADS.

With every recurring Legislature the question comes up: What can be done to improve the public roads of the State?

It is, in truth, a difficult question to answer, but the difficulty makes it all the more important that the thought of the most sensible and practical men among us should be directed towards the ways and means of road improvement. In Pennsylvania a legislative commission has been investigating the subject in all parts of the State, and the members thereof have practically agreed on an act that will be presented at the next session of the legislature. We have not seen the report of the commission, but the Atlanta Constitution gives the following synopsis of it:

This act provides for the appointment of three commissioners in each township, who shall have the power to select and pay road masters. Farmers who choose to work out their road tax will not be permitted to work at their own convenience. They must notify the commission of their intention before the 13th of April of each year, and they will be required to report at such times and places as are designated by the road-masters, and, on failure to comply, their road tax will become payable in cash.

The act also provides that, in addition to the yearly mending of the roads, a certain portion of the money collected for this purpose shall be set aside for permanent improvement. Whenever one mile in a township has been thoroughly constructed--that is to say, whenever the road has been built on a stone or gravel foundation, with such covering as is approved by the county engineer, the county will be required to build an additional mile of permanent road in the same township, and the state will be required to construct another mile. Thus the authorities of the township, the county and the state will be placed in competition in the matter of road-building.

The Wilmington Messenger has entered upon its seventh volume. It is a well conducted, able, clean and high-toned newspaper. It is not only creditable to the city of Wilmington but to the entire State as well.

The CHRONICLE sympathizes with the Twin City Daily in the loss by fire of its entire establishment. It is a new paper and had just purchased the Sentinel and started out upon a wider career of usefulness.

OPPOSED TO CLOTURE.

Senator Teller Denounces it--Other Republican Opposition.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 29--Senator Teller, of Colorado, is opposed to the new rule, and with blunt Western direct-ness he doesn't hesitate to say so. "I intend," he said, "to make a speech against it when the resolution comes before the Senate. We do not need such a rule. The Senate has managed its business for eighty-four years under its business code, and this includes the period covering the heated debates in the antebellum times and the stormy scenes of the reconstruction days since."

"Whether the cloture resolution is adopted or not, it is my opinion the Election bill will never become a law," said Senator Wolcott, of Colorado. Senator Wolcott is one of a group of Western Republican Senators who are said to entertain a kindred antipathy to the Force bill, the others being his colleague, Senator Teller; Senator Stewart, of Nevada; Senator Plumb, of Kansas; Senator Jones of Nevada; Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, and possibly Senator Stanford, of California.

On Monday, January 5th, 1891, at the House door in Raleigh, N. C., I will publicly offer the lands in Wake county deceased by the late Caswell Powell at the his death. Said lands are about four square miles, situated in the town of Raleigh, consisting of about eleven hundred and thirty acres, more or less, and are timbered. The sale will be made in lots to suit purchasers, and on one of these lots a good dwelling and all necessary houses, being the residence of said Powell, deceased. This is a fine opportunity to persons desiring to purchase estate.

Terms of sale: One-third cash, and the two equal installments payable in one and two years after day of sale. Debetors to bear six per cent interest on the balance of the purchase money until paid.
Hour of sale, 12 M. See notice of sale, January, 1891, at 12 o'clock M. at the Court House door of Wake county, and the highest bidder for cash will receive the above tract, one of the lots in the special proceeding, for partition of the heirs-at-law of Caswell Powell, deceased, entitled Clinton W. Williams and against Julia A. Williams and others, No.
